OPEN STEEPLECHASE PARK.

on Museo Wax Figures New Feature at Coney Resort.

he rain and stormy weather yesterday did not prevent a large crowd of city Island pleasure seekers from attending the opening of Steeplechase Park. Few of the attractions had yet opened, but among those ready for visitors was the Eden Museo, which for many years was in West Twenty-third Street.

Before the building was torn down last year, Samuel W. Gumpertz, a showman, purchased the wax figures of presidents, queens, presidents, and other famous or notorious persons, without telling the time how he intended to display them. In a large tent where animals have again gone on view, and crowd clamored to see them. Some men attempted the surf, but they were few. Luna Park will open May 20.

TER IMELDA TERESA DEAD

Mar Graduate Quit the Salvation Army to Become a Nun.

Sister Imelda Teresa, who as Susan came to America from England as a secretary to Miss de la Roche of the Army and later for some time National Auxiliary Secretary of the Y. died on Wednesday at Saint Clara's, St. Louis, Mo. She was a daughter of a wealthy Longbecker family, and after being graduated from Mar College became a teacher in a women's school in Morristown, N. J.

Sister Imelda was editor of All World, the official paper of the Salvation Army, and in that capacity she was in London when she founded 'Newsboys' Home in Fleet Street, did much good work among the poor of that great city. After returning to this country as secretary to Eva, Sister Imelda decided to become a nun, and, although she was strongly opposed by General Booth, she joined the Y. A. Sisters for instruction. In 1905 she entered the Order of the Holy Dominick as a postulant, later as the white and finally the black.

When she entered the order she was the care of her adopted daughter, Isabel, to Mrs. Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Sister Rose, head of the Home for the Blind.

CIRCUS GIANT DIES; HAD BEEN HOMESICK

Hugo, 8 Feet 4 Inches Tall, and Weighing 536 Pounds, Longed for Sunny Italy.

"SMALLEST" MAN HIS CHUM

Only a Week Ago "World's Tallest Man" Was Best Man at Midget Short's Wedding.

Hugo, the "tallest man in the world" and the giant of Barnum & Bailey's Circus, died yesterday afternoon from pneumonia in the Willard Parker Hospital, one week after he had been best man and the centre of attraction at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Francis Short, the diminutive clown and snakecharmer of the circus.

The "tallest man," whose only name, even to the circus people, was Hugo, was 8 feet, 4 inches high, and normally weighed about 536 pounds. This was his first season with Barnum & Bailey's, for whom he was acquired by their agents in Italy, his home. He was 67 years old and had not been in good health for some time. It is said that he was homesick for sunny Italy, and his "pal" among the show people was Count Pabek, the smallest living man, also an Italian, with whom he spent hours when off duty, talking in their native tongue and playing chess.

Hugo was taken ill a week ago and went to his hotel, where he was attended ed by Dr. Joseph M. Manley, the physician of the circus. Several days later, when it was seen that his condition was serious, he was sent to the hospital.

He was not the original giant Hugo. The original Hugo was his brother, both of them more than eight feet tall, their parents being short and slightly below the average height. When his brother returned home last year the late giant was engaged to come over, here and represent the family, whose only two sons were the tallest men in the world.

In addition to being tall, Hugo was large in proportion. A half dollar could be easily slipped through his finger ring and the ball of his thumb would more than cover a silver dollar. If his shoes had been a regular stock size they would have been size twenty-two, and to be larger than any ever worn. He was forced to sleep crosswise in three beds in order to have room enough, and when in good health his meals would have been sufficient for four or five ordinary persons. For breakfast Hugo would usually take six cups of coffee, fourteen to sixteen slices of toast, a dozen or more eggs and six oranges. His dinner usually consisted of three or four steaks, or a whole roast, with "side dishes" in like proportion.

Hugo will be buried in Greenwood Cemetery on Tuesday morning. His friends of the circus are sorrowful because none of them can attend the funeral, as the orphan's performance is billed to take place at the same time as the funeral. In addition to this, there was a gloom over the circus grounds yesterday afternoon, and for the first time in many years the Easter celebration, which is a great event among the circus folk, was called off in respect to their fellow-worker, Hugo, the "tallest man in the world."

John Brown Raider Dies.

George Pilson, the last survivor of John Brown's famous raid on Harper's Ferry, in 1859, died on Saturday at his home in Yonkers, N. Y., in his sixty-ninth year. He was in the engine house at Harper's Ferry and was only three feet from John Brown when he was wounded. Mr. Pilson was a sanitary inspector of Yonkers for more than fifty years and was an employer of the late Elijah Dill, inventor of the Otis elevator. He won fame by his bravery during the smallpox epidemic in Yonkers, during which he did not hesitate to enter the tent in which the sufferers died and remove their bodies for burial.

Find Skeleton of a Prehistoric Man 18 Feet in Height

"If the report that the fossilized skeleton of a giant, eighteen feet tall, has been found near Seymour, Texas, is true it is the most important ethnological discovery, ever made in the world," remarked Dr. J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology of the University of Texas. "It would break all previous records of giants by nearly ten feet, as the tallest man known to anthropological research was only eight feet five inches in height. While it seems to be improbable that the bones which have been unearthed near Seymour are those of a human being. I shall make an investigation of the reported discovery."

Notwithstanding Dr. Pearce's expressed pessimism of the authenticity of the reported discovery of the remains of this giant of a bygone age, the skeleton is in possession of W. J. McKinney, the oil prospector who found it, and has been seen by a number of people, who vouch for the truth of the size of the relic of a heretofore unknown race.

Mr. McKinney is very much interested in the discovery of the bones of this prehistoric man. It was while he was making an excavation on the narrow watershed between the Brazos and Wichita rivers that he came upon the fossilized skeleton near the surface. Mr. McKinney writes:

"I estimate that this man weighed from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds. According to my deductions he lived about 2,800 years ago. The skull is six times the size of that of an ordinary man."

Mr. McKinney does not explain how he arrived at the figures as to the probable period of the existence of this remarkable man. It is probable that the bones of the giant will be donated to the Smithsonian Institution, which, under the direction of Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, is now conducting anthropological research work in Texas.

Prof. Roy Bedichek of the University of Texas, who is excavating Indian mounds near Round Rock, says that a new era of anthropological study is opened up if the fossilized remains found near Seymour are really those of a giant.

"It would take further research to find whether this eighteen-foot man, of prehistoric time belonged to a distinct race of people or was a freak of a race of average size," Mr. Bedichek said—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

OFFICIALS MISUSE FUNDS

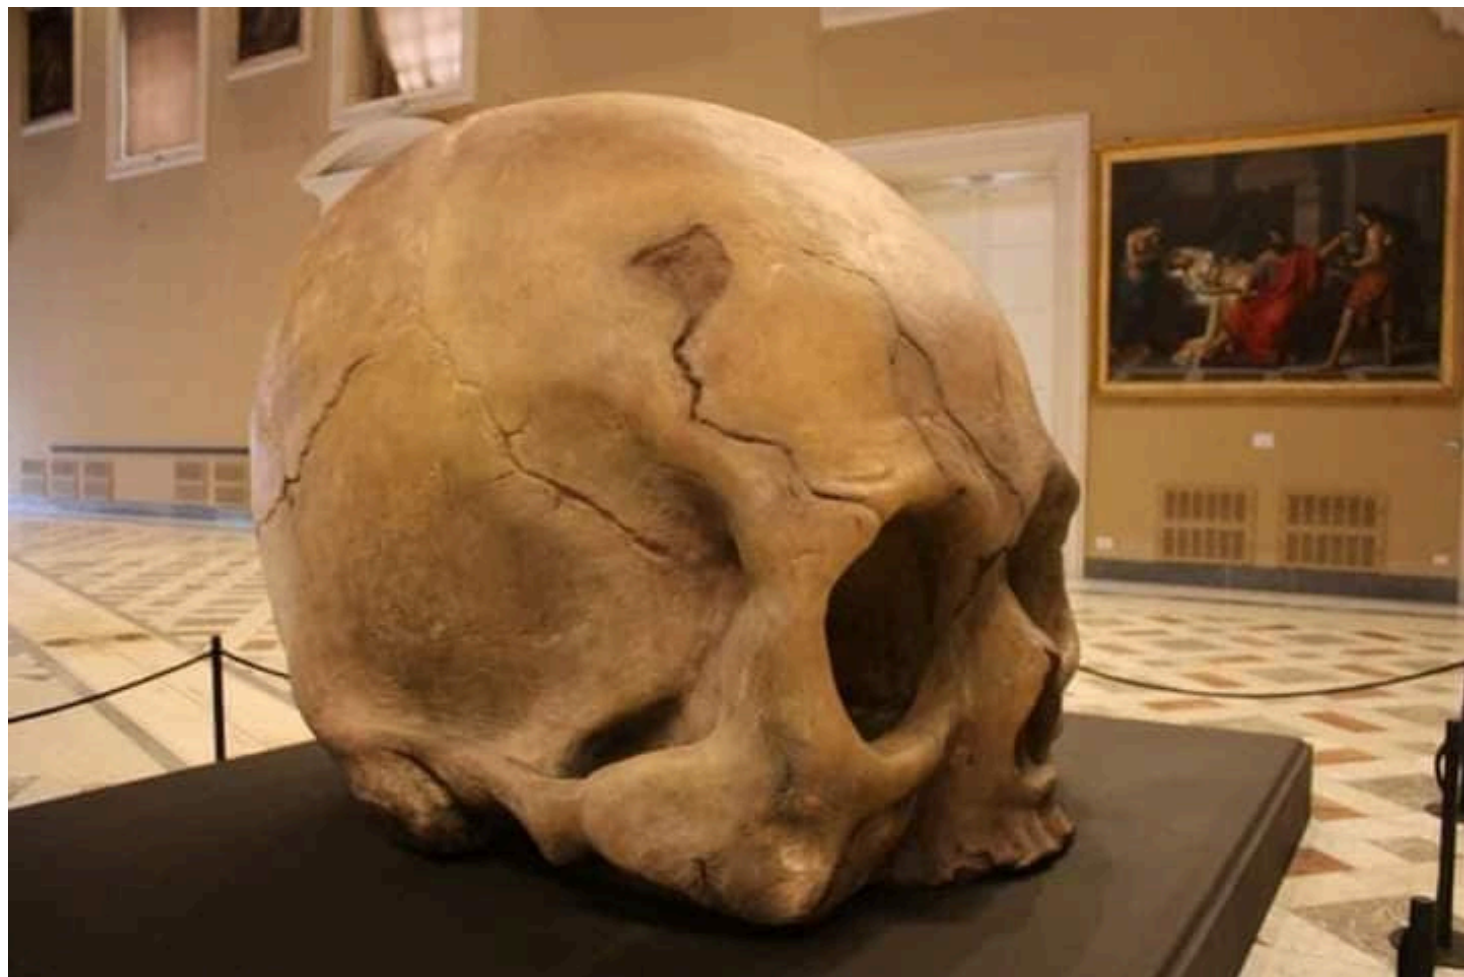

Senator Smoot Charges Propaganda Is Carried on by Bureaus.

Washington, July 31.—The use of government funds by officials of the Executive Department to inspire propaganda to influence Congress to continue publications which they have reasons to think will be cut off for reasons of economy, is charged by Senator Smoot.

Senator Smoot said that as chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing he had been flooded with hundreds of telegrams of identical wording inspired by government officials. "The practice is becoming so common," Senator Thomas, Democrat of Colorado, interrupted, "that it is a nuisance."

Du bist ein ganz besonderer Wahrheitssucher

Ich schreibe meine Bücher ganz unabhängig und ohne den Einfluss eines Verlages. Das ist nur möglich, weil es Menschen wie dich gibt, die trotz allem Gegenwind selbständig recherchieren und nicht bei Alternativen Medien und den unzähligen Gatekeepern hängenbleiben, die die neue Weltordnung für die Halbaufgewachten einleiten werden. Dafür danke ich dir wirklich von Herzen, lieber Wahrheitssucher! Ohne dich wäre das nicht möglich! Damit das so bleibt und ich auch in Zukunft Bücher ohne einen Verlag schreiben kann, wäre ich dir sehr dankbar, wenn du eine Rezension hinterlassen und damit zeigen würdest, dass dir das Buch geholfen hat, der Wahrheit dieser Welt ein Stück näher zu kommen. Ich würde mich auch sehr freuen, wenn du dir auch gerne meine anderen Bücher anschauen würdest!
